1.4	1.4.1		ALL	This indicator is Goal 1, and is also particularly related to Goals 5, 8.1 (access to agricultural land) and 5.4.2 (rural framework for land governance). It covers security matters for Target 2, Target 2.1.2.1 and 2.1.2.2 addressing smallholder farmers; Target 2.1.2.2.1 on agricultural areas; in Goal 11, in target 11.1 [scale to affordable housing and upgrading standards] and target 11.3 (sustainable urbanization/settlement planning). Land tenure also influences land use and thus key to achieving Goal 14 fish to provide access to all ecosystems to fisheries and marine resources, and to Goal 15 (the sustainable use of land and natural resources). Similarly, land is a significant source of conflict, and thus also matters for Goal 16 for promoting peace and inclusive societies and institutions.

1.6	1.6.1		NUL	The definition of poverty follows indicator 1.2.1 (Proportion of population living below the national poverty line, $0.98 and up).
				The methodology underlying the proposed indicator 1.1.1 and its related data requirements are also closely related to that of the newly developed indicator Redistributive Impact of Fiscal Policy measuring SDG Target 10. However, the two indicators measure different aspects of public policies: while the Redistributive Impact of Fiscal Policy Indicator measures an exact measure of the distributional impact of fiscal policies aimed at achieving greater equality (SDG Target 10.4), this indicator focuses solely on the spending side of governments' fiscal policies and its effect on the poor. As their impacts can be found to reduce overall inequality may not benefit disproportionately more the poor, as their impact on the income distribution may occur at higher levels of the distribution. In clear contrast to the indicator Redistributive Impact of Fiscal Policy, the clear focus of the proposed indicator Pre-poor public social spending is on the effect of spending for poor individuals or households, reflecting if social policies are aligned with pro-poor development strategies. In this regard, the indicator directly measures SDG Target 10.4.
